Maynard Ferguson Concert Moved

The Tuesday, Jan. 21 concert of Maynard Ferguson has been moved from the gymnasium to the Recital Hall due to slow ticket sales, announced Dr. Arthur Moorefield, professor of music.

"We would rather have a full house and in fact we're planning for an overflow," he said, explaining that additional seating will be arranged in the chorale room where the audience will be able to view the concert on wide-screen television. The accommodations will seat 327 people, he added.

The music of Maynard Ferguson, a renowned trumpeter and bandleader, ranges from what jazz purists call "funk and fusion" to mainstream. He is accompanied by a band comprised of five horns, percussion, guitar, keyboards, bass and drums. Young audiences may recall his rendition of the 1977 hit single, "Gonna Fly Now," which was adapted from the first "Rocky" movie. Ferguson has two Grammy nominations to his credit.

As of yesterday, more than 200 tickets had been sold through the Music Department, students and at various music stores in surrounding communities, said Philip West, support technician for the Music Department. Slow ticket sales are being blamed on the fact that Ferguson and his band also held a concert last night at Hemet High School with a general admission price which was less than the cost of admission here. A Riverside music store sold 30 tickets for the Hemet concert and one for the performance here.

Tickets will be available at the door before the concert at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, West said.

Holiday

The university campus will be closed Monday, Jan. 20 in observance of Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday, which officially was Jan. 15.

Academic Deans Settle On Faculty/Chair Release Time

Proposed changes in the allocation of release time for faculty professional development as well as for department chair positions were approved by Vice President Detweiler after vigorous debate by the Council of Academic Deans Jan. 13.

Dr. Detweiler recommended that assigned time for faculty professional development should be made available through regular position allocations in the schools, rather than setting aside positions specifically for professional development purposes. Faculty release time, therefore, would be granted on a competitive basis following established procedures and criteria. Faculty development proposals which require funding for student assistance, supplies and services and travel will continue to be submitted to the Faculty Affairs Committee. Vice President Detweiler is seeking approximately $50,000 in the annual budget to provide for next year's requests.

In addition, Dr. Detweiler settled on a new formula for the allocation of department chair assigned time, which would be distributed to the schools based on one-third full-time equivalent faculty, one-third full-time equivalent students and one-third number of departments. Each school would apportion the time to the departments.

As a rule, changes in administrative procedures and policies are submitted by one of the associate vice presidents or school deans for consideration by the council. Faculty input is sought through the Executive Committee of the Faculty Senate, which in turn assigns a committee to review the proposals. Once approved by the Faculty Senate, the documents return to the Council of Academic Deans for final recommendation to the President.

Theatre Festival Needs Volunteers

The 12th annual Theatre Festival for Young Audiences is seeking volunteers and support for the event which will be held on campus April 10-13, said Dr. Amanda Sue Rudisill, professor of theatre arts and one of the coordinators of the event.

"We're seeking individuals and groups interested in performing, running concession stands or participating in workshops and games," she said. "Cal State Associates, for example, will be holding an art fair Saturday, April 12, which will give children an opportunity for some 'hands-on' artistic experiences. The children will be allowed to take their creations home with them.

"We also welcome any kind of financial or 'in-kind services' support since the festival is run essentially with the support of the non-profit Southern California Educational Theatre Association, the Theatre Arts Department and the superintendents of schools in Riverside and San Bernardino counties," she continued. "We especially are in need of funding to pay the travel and lodging costs of professional performers, many of whom are donating their time and talent, as well as arranging for the transportation of physically disadvantaged children to campus. Program credit will be given to any organization donating funds or services."

Spend Super Sunday In Student Union

The Student Union and Pub will be open from 1-6 p.m., Jan. 26 for Super Bowl Sunday where the game can be viewed on wide-screen television. In addition, there will be an intramural arm wrestling competition held in the Pub.

The California State University, San Bernardino BULLETIN is published by the Public Affairs Office, AD 117, Ext. 7558. Items for publication should be received in writing by noon Tuesday.

Egyptian Professor To Visit Campus

Dr. Mohamed Bakr, a visiting Fulbright scholar in history and civilization, will present a public lecture on ancient Egyptian culture, circa 2500 B.C., at 8 p.m., Monday, Jan. 27 in the Eucalyptus Room of the Lower Commons. His talk and presentation will focus on "The Solar Boat of King Cheops."

Dr. Bakr is the dean of the faculty of arts and ancient history at Zagazig University in Cairo. He is in the U.S. doing research on American museums. A colleague of Dr. Amer El-Ahraf (Academic Resources), Dr. Bakr visited Cal State two years ago and was responsible for bringing an exhibit of papyrus paintings to the Library and Art Gallery. His appearance here is sponsored by the university's Intellectual Life Committee.

CSU Trustee Stickel To Tour Campus Tuesday

CSU Trustee Tom Stickel will visit campus and meet with faculty and administrators Tuesday, Jan. 21, as part of the university's effort to acquaint more trustees with Cal State, San Bernardino. Stickel has been on the board since 1984.

He is chairman and chief executive officer of T.C.S. Financial, Inc., in San Diego.

New Lounge Planned For Dormitories

Plans are underway for a new student multipurpose room to be built adjacent to the pool and patio area in Serrano Village, announced Doyle Stansel, associate dean of student life and housing.

"The architect is working on plans for an 1,800-square-foot room that could be used for dances, parties and meetings. It will have a small stage and kitchen area and open out onto the pool area so that events could be held indoors or out," he said. "There will be tables and chairs and possibly a small Scandinavian fireplace." The new lounge, which will be called "The Village Square," should be completed early this summer, he added.

After Hours Safety Tips From Campus Police

Prompted by interest expressed by several women faculty, Quentin Moses (Public Safety) has issued safety tips for faculty and staff working at night, during weekends or when activity on campus is at a minimum.

1. Campus Police should be notified at Ext. 7555 if someone is working when most buildings and offices are closed. Inform the dispatcher of the office location, how long you expect to be and call when you leave.
2. Lock the door if working during a time when no others are present. If leaving the office for a few minutes, lock the door behind you.
3. Carry a flashlight when working during hours of darkness.
4. When walking to your car at night, carry the keys in your hand and try to walk with a friend. If no one is available, call Campus Police for escort service, which is available seven days a week. Although appointments for an escort cannot be scheduled in advance, the wait is often less than five minutes.
5. If there is a possible security problem, call Campus Police for an investigation.
6. Remember: crimes are often a matter of opportunity. Don't create the opportunity.

Some Room In Dorms

Serrano Village is home to 418 residents this quarter, according to Doyle Stansel, associate dean of student life. The men's dorms are full with a waiting list of approximately 20 students, while there are 10 vacancies in the women's quarters.

Cal State Noted In Library Facts

Pfau Library is cited as being noteworthy among the CSU libraries in a book, "1984-85 CSU Library Statistics," published by the Chancellor's Office, said John Tibbals, head of patron service. While 15 CSU campuses had larger enrollments than Cal State during that academic year, only 13 had larger book collections in their libraries and only 10 showed larger annual increases in the size of their library collections.

Noon Concert Thursday Features Violin/Piano

A noon recital Thursday, Jan. 23 will feature violinist John Golz of the University of Redlands and pianist Lily Pan Diehl of Loma Linda. Golz has been head of the string department at the University of Redlands School of Music for 27 years. He is well-known in the area as a chamber music performer and as the concertmaster of the Redlands Bowl Symphony. Dr. Diehl has performed for audiences throughout the U.S., Europe and the Orient. She was recognized by the Riverside Press-Enterprise as the "most versatile performer of the year" for her achievements as a pianist, vocalist and actress/producer. The performance will be in the Recital Hall.

Term Paper Seminar Offered

The Learning Center and Library are offering a special, non-credit seven-session seminar on researching and writing term papers beginning Tuesday, Jan. 21, said Dianna Pelletier of the Learning Center. Students may attend any or all of the sessions. More information is available at Ext. 7612.
